ADDITIONAL IMPRISONMENT TERMS

The Court specifically notes that Mr. Johnson has been held in continuous custody, State and Federal, since April 16, 2005, over 18 months. While a little over one year of his detention was in state custody, Title 18 U.S.C. § 3585(b)(2) indicates the defendant shall be given credit against his federal sentence for that State time, since his detention was not credited against another sentence.

The Court has considered the Policy Statements contained in Chapter 7 of the Sentencing Guideline Manual, and further notes that 18 U.S.C. § 3583(e)(3) permits a sentence up to two years imprisonment for a violation of supervised release relating to a Class D felony offense. Although the sentence of time served is above the policy statements range of 8-14 months, it is below the statutory maximum of twenty-four months.

Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 3583, this sentence has taken into account the history and characteristics of the defendant, and the nature of the supervised release violation. It has also afforded the defendant with needed medical care and other correctional treatment. Mr. Johnson has been held in custody since April 16, 2005, which has also served to protect the public from other potential crimes by the defendant. The Court concludes a sentence of time served provides just punishment for the conduct detailed in the petition on supervised release.

There is to be no term of supervised release to follow imprisonment.
